FORWORD

As the years go by many will be the happy memories of our high school days--memories of friendships, social activities, classes, athletics, and honors won.

In order to preserve these memories, the Staff and the Senior Class of 1932 have cooperated in publishing this volume of Kay Aitch Ess.

DEDICATION

We, the Senior Class of 1932, are happy to dedicate to Mr. John Howerton this twentieth volume of Kay Aitch Ess. Mr. Howerton has proved to be, not only a very efficient annual advisor this year, but for 9 years past. One can not praise him too much for his willing services and ability to help in all school activities. He is a friend to the student, a staunch beleiver in the principles of the school, and is liked by all.

PAULINE ADAMS

"Just give her time and by her might, She'll prove to you that black is white."

ROSS BAIR

"He has a dream, and all through life,
He works up to it through toil and strife."

GARNET BASSET

"My own thoughts are my companions."

HELEN BOSZOR

"Anything she does, she does well,
And she does most everything."

ANGELINE BOWER

"Tripping along with impetuous grace,
Joy of her life beaming out of her face."

FRED BRADY

"When joy and duty clash, let duty go to smash."

VIRGINIA BUSHONG

"If to her share some female errors fall,
Look on her face and you'll forget them all."

FREDERICK BUTZ

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream."

FLORENCE CALL

"What shall I do to be forever known,
And make the age to come my very own?"

ROBERT CARTER

"We hear Bob has been looking for a new specie of "fern"."

LOUIS CASSIL

"No one shall look down on me."

CLELLIA COOKERLY

"Live while you may,
And seize the pleasures of the present day."

GERTRUDE CROFOOT

"Laugh and the world laughs with you."

JUNE CRAMER

"And what is so rare as a date with June?"

EDITH DAUNER

"The world stands out on either side,
No wider than her heart is wide."

WILBUR EULITT

"Look, my children, and you shall see Wilbur walking with Miss Betty!"

KATHLEEN EMERICK

"He who makes Courtship to glory,
Gives all that he hath for her blush."

HELEN ESHELMAN

"Congenial as the sun's warm rays,
Her welcome cheer makes bright the days."

EMORY FELLER

"I act upon this prudent plan,
Say little, but hear all I can."

JOSEPHINE FISK

"There was a soft and pensive grace,
A cast of thought upon her face."

FLORENCE FRANKE

"Quiet and dignified as can be,
A friend to everyone is she."

JOHN FREE

"Master of human destinies am I,
But Fame, Love, and Fortune pass me by."

MAXINE FRITZ

"We are afraid Maxine will become a drug(ist) fien."

BEULAH GATES

"Beulah is clearly of the opinion
That the air is also man's dominion."

JAMES GEHRING

"James is going to fly high--in fact he wants to be an aviator."

ESTHER GEIB

"Friendliness is not her name, but it fits her just the same."

ESTHER GISEL

"A perfect person, nobly planned,
To warm, to comfort and command."

MUZETTA GUYMON

"When I will, I will; you may depend on it,
When I won't, I won't; and that's the end of it."

ORVAL HALLER

"The force of his own merit makes his way."

EMORY HAMILTON

"Whatever Sceptic could inquire for,
For every why he had a wherefore."

JOYCE HARDING

"She speaks to all as though they were
A living, loving part of her."

GWENDLYN HART

"What a pity it is that Age can't see
That things are the same as they used to be."

HUBERT HAWKINS

"Since love doth fade like the flowers of June, I'll leave it in charge of the light of the moon."

NEOMA HAWKINS

"For she was just the quiet kind,
Whose nature never varies."

IDAMAY HILL

"I have a heart with room for every joy."

RUTH HILL

"This world knows nothing of its greatest women."

MIRIAM HOLCOMB

"Sincerity her own fine grace,--
No matter where, no matter how,
For she will always win a place."

HAROLD HOSLER

"I have come to school to get a general idea of things."

MARY JANE KELLER

"Giggling comes natural and all things show it,
I thought it once and now I know it."

PAUL JOHN

"Give grasping pomp its double share,
I ask but one recumbent chair."

HAROLD LEHNER

"This I beheld or dreamed it in a dream-- Andy playing basketball on the first team."

WAYNE LEIGHTY

"His only fault is that he has none."

LOUISE LOVE

"I can not raise my worth to high,
Of what vast consequence am I!"

DONALD LOWER

"Not that I loved school less, but that I loved pleasure more."

JACK MAYNARD

"They are never alone who are accompanied with noble thoughts."

NORMA MERTZ

"As pure as a pearl,
And as perfect: a noble and dutiful girl."

DAVID MILBOURN

"He had a head to contrive and a hand to execute any mischief."

FRANK MITCHELL

"Speech is great, but silence is greater."

ELEANOR MUESING

"And her modest answer and graceful air,
Show her wise and good as she is fair."

KENNETH MUNK

"His mind his kingdom, his will his law."

REX MUNK

"All great men die, and I'm not well myself."

RUTH MYERS

"Her hair like the fairy-flax,
Her eyes like the blue of the sea."

FRANCES NARTKER

"I'm a woman; when I think, I must speak."

MARY PATTERSON

"Maybe to mean yes and say no comes natural to women.

PAUL RAUB

"Disguise our bondage as we will,
'Tis woman, woman rules us still."

ELIZABETH KEICK

"Just like a rose, so graceful, so fair, Voice tender sweet, and manner so rare."

ELIZABETH KEYHER

"Good-humor only teaches charms to last,
Still makes new conquests and maintains the past."

ALBERTA KUNGE

"I would if I could, but if I couldn't, how could I?"

LEE SAWYER

"I saw him upon nearer view
A boy and yet a big man too!"

CLAIR SCARLETT

"When duty whispers low "Thou must",
The youth replies,"I can"."

MARGARET SCHMIDT

"Always busy and always so sweet,
Always ready her duty to meet."

LEONA SCHUMAN

"To hear her speak, and sweetly smile,
You were in Paradise the while."

EMMA SHEAS

"Some folks study and finally stop,
But I study on forever."

LUCILLE SHERMAN

"A quiet friend, but a friend indeed,
'Smiling and Doing', a splendid creed."

EUGENE SIBERT

"His studying was all done, and he sought some new sport to banish care."

ARTHUR STOCKTON

"His heart as far from fraud as heaven from earth."

HENRY TRINDLE

"But matchless Henry! What a few can hope to rival such as you--(basketball)."

JOHN VALENTI

"I only ask that Fortune send
A little more than I can spend."

EDMOND WALTERS

"If you can't realize your ideal, Idealize your real."

ROBERT WALTERS

"All things I thought I knew; but now confess
The more I know I know, I know the less."

NED WEIHMILLER

"He kept his secret from all the rest Safely buttoned within his vest."

27

ORVENE WALTER

"She was a phantom of delight
When first she gleamed upon my sight."

MARTHA WIBLE

"She was a good sport and nothing less."

NANCY WILLIAMS

"Decided I am, decided I be,
If less decided, then 'twouldn't be me."

ELLEN MARGARET WILLS

"Everyone knows she'll have her way,
Logic is logic, that's all I say."

VIRGINIA WITZAMAN

"If I'm not worth the wooing, I'm surely not worth the winning."

OPAL WRIGHT

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest of these "It might have been."

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Our good ship, "High-school Days", sailed out from "8th Grade Harbor" in September, 1928, with 92 crafty seamen aboard, ready for the four-year voyage ahead. Streamers of cerise and silver, fastened to the mast, could be seen floating on the breeze. The crew consisting of: Captain, Miss Morrison; First Mate, Merritt Diggins; Second Mate, Mary Patterson; and Steward, Elizabeth Reick ably guided us through the first lap of our voyage. There were some rough days at sea, when we encountered the "Test" rocks, but our ship still held up, our motto being, "It is not the worst thing in the world to fail; the worst thing is not to try." One night we all gathered in Teresa Dicken's cabin for a hard-time party, the biggest event of the year. In May, 1929, we sailed into the harbor, "Summer Vacation", where we rested awhile before continueing our journey.

When we again set out, we had a new crew aboard. They were; Captain, Mr. Schwab; First Mate, Josephine Fisk; Second Mate, Mary Patterson; and Steward, Florence Franke. Not long after this lap of our journey had begun, we rescued some sailors who had been in the ship, "South Milford," which had sunk. This increased our number of sailors to 104. That year we held a big party on deck, with Harold Hosler's orchestra playing for the dancing. When we sailed into harbor that summer, we felt very seaworthy and like experienced sailors.

The next fall, we again sailed from the harbor, taking with us a new crew, consisting of: Captain, Miss Valinti; First Mate, Helen Eshelman; Second Mate, Jack Maynard; Steward, Helen Boszor. This year proved one of the most eventful in our 4-year voyage. A group of sailors under the direction of Lieutenant Sherman staged a very clever play on the first deck. It was called, "Adam and Eva." Later in the year, we invited the sailors from another ship, "The Senior Class," which was nearing the end of its journey, to our first deck for a farewell banquet. This was a success in every way, and the guests went back to their ship saying they would never forget it.

After sailing out of harbor in the last year of our voyage, we felt very proud to think that we had survived the storms and were now nearly at the end of our journey. Our crew consisted of: Captain, Miss Valenti; First Mate, Edmond Walters; Second Mate, Emory Hamilton; Steward, Lucile Sherman. We suffered many disappointments, the biggest being that because the sinking of several of our treasure ships we were unable to publish a tale of our four-year voyage. But along with the disappointments came the joys. The sailors of another ship, "The Junior Class," planned to entertain us at a farewell party, to which we all looked forward with much pleasure. Finally we planned to dock at that great harbor, "Graduation," where we would all be presented with diplomas. We took great pride in the fact that ours would be the first ship whose sailors landed there crew in the proper caps and gowns.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1929 we, the Junior Class, boarded the great ship "Junior High School" to make a five year cruise around the world called "Education." None of us knew much of cruising and many were the questions and actions that we bothered our captain with the first few weeks. Many were the times that we grew rather sea sick while being tossed into those great waves of English, Algebra, and many others. Our officers on our first years cruise were: Miss Helen Morrison, Captain; Wayne Stewart, First Mate; Elizabeth Keyher, Second Mate; and John Narkter filled the position of Steward. During some furious storms we are sorry to say that several were swept overboard, but the other sailors and sailoresses were allowed to go on the next year's cruise.

This year some of our crew did some brave exploring and deserve much honor. These were Thelma Shanline, John Cassil, Warren Schmuck, Helen Steckley, and Elizabeth Keyher. The second year we chose new naval officers and as our Captain we chose Mr. Minch; First Mate, Elizabeth Keyher; Second Mate, John Narkter; Third Mate, Dale Kimmell; and Steward, Angeline Bower. Toward the end of our second year our Steward ask us to anchor at the port of Rome City to spend a day at her cottage.

When we started out on our third year cruise, we felt quite important and experienced and were always glad to help our inferior sailors when our ship crossed their path. We chose Miss Hughes as Captain; John Nartker as First Mate; wayne Stewart as Second Mate, and Robert Walters as Steward.

Now we are on next to our last cruise. How the time has flown! This year we chose Miss Goodwin, Captain; John Narkter, First Mate; Wayne Stewart, Second Mate; and Roy Hart as Steward. On February 13, an unlucky day, we encountered a terrible storm. We struck a large wave which washed most our treasure overboard. Because of this it is uncertain as to whether the good ship "The Senior Class". will be invited on our ship for the annual banquet. The sea has been very stormy this year but we hope that next year, in which we take our last cruise, the sea will be more calm.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

The Class of '34 set sail in September, 1930, with Miss Noblitt as Captain, Lloyd Bowman as First Mate, Thomas Stoneburner as Second Mate, and Ruth Vetter as Third Mate. Soon after they set sail and everyone was more accustomed to the sea and its waves, the officers called the crew to the gymnasium for a party. A picnic dinner was served at noon, after which games were enjoyed. In the afternoon they were entertained by a basketball game between the beginning and advanced sailors of the crew. Late in the afternoon they returned to their cabins.

Early in the spring of '31, all but a very few, survived the sea and its terrors. They then landed at the port of Vacation where they stayed three months.

In September, 1931, they again embarked, this time with Miss Newnam as Captain, Thomas Stoneburner as First Mate, Ruth Vetter as Second Mate, and George Deems as Third Mate. This time a few new sailors were added to the crew, and a few who were with them last year were not present.

They decided to have a party early this year because weather conditions looked rather bad. So on an evening early in October all sailors and sailoresses were summoned to meet in the ballroom of the ship. The evening was spent in dancing, and also contests in the form of a track meet. At a late hour refreshments were served, and the guests departed.

The crew will return to port the first of June, 1932, and the one great hope is that everyone will be present when they start on their third journey next September.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

In September of the year of nineteen thirty, we pulled in the anchor, and embarked upon the stormy sea of higher education. When we had just started to cruise along the coast to get a lay of the land, the waves grew higher and the rivalry of higher ships grew to an enormous size. Thus we selected from our wealth of wisdom: Lawrence Brechbill, First Mate; Beatrice Hire, Second Mate; Dexter Taylor, Steward; and Miss Newnam, our Captain. She watched over the little ship with care and thus a year passed and the ship had not once hit the rocks.

Ship Ahoy! Now we are Freshmen and starting on our permanent course, headed for deep water with plenty of gales and breakers to conquer, but we feel we will have little trouble beings we have had one year of sea experience. As Captain we have chosen Mr. Hammon; as First Mate, Betty Kizer; as Second Mate, Margaret Teders; and as Steward, Robert Joe Hosler. On November the sixth of this year , by way of entertainment the little ship's occupants decided to have a party in the ballroom of the ship. The party with its many amusements, was a great success. We had a splendid orchestra which furnished us with music for dancing.

We sailors and sailoresses are also quite famous for our entertaining chapel programs that we put on.

Thus far we have had fair weather with occasional storm, as we have sailed along. May our luck not forsake us as we sail far far into this large sea; and may we finally pass through the distant harbor of graduation and reach the shore of the land of Success!!

EIGHTH GRADE CLASS HISTORY

As we have just started out on our first cruise we do not have a very long history, but we have had some naval drill on land before taking to sea. We all well remember eight short years ago when we started to prepare for that long sea voyage on the ship "High School." Most of us liked our new experience and very few of us decided that we would not go on with our training, for our work was interesting under our many naval officers. When we saw our companions boarding the good ship "High School," we often wondered when we, too, could walk up the "gang plank."

Now the time has come and we have boarded the ship. Even after seven years of land experience in naval work, we feel very strange, perhaps it is seasickness. Our ship is so large that some of us got lost the first few days. Officers were elected from our class with the exception of a Captain, who had to be more experienced. The officers were as follows: Miss Fisher, Captain; Mary Alice McDaniels, First Mate; Billy Brunson, Second Mate; and Gretchen Deems, Steward.

After we were comfortably situated and had taken up anchor we decided to celebrate with a party on deck. This was on November 20, 1931. Basketball games were played with the 8A's and the 8B's rivals. The 8A's were the winners. Other games and dancing were also enjoyed.

There are now nearly one hundred of us sailors and sailoresses and we all look forward to four more happy voyages together.

Activities

Mr. Howerton: (In Physics Class) "Now in what state will the water have to be?" (Meaning hot, cold, etc.)
Fred Brady: "Water in a liquid state."

(In Speech Class Edith Dauner was posing as saleslady in a hosiery department)
Edith Dauner: "What can I do for you?"
Emory Feller (customer): "I would like to look at your hose."

Miss Smith: "From what part of the beef do we get "T" bone steak?"
Opal Wright: "From the same place that you get ham in a hog."

Betty Hopkins: "What'cha doing tonight?"
Dorthea Harker: "I think I'll stay home and work on my map."
Edward Streich: "It needs it!"

Mr. Howerton: (Talking about force and motion) "Now, what are we studying?"
Manfred Wright: "--er--Physics."

Miss Smith found the following on a Health paper: In order to help prevent getting tuberculosis, one must drink milk from pasteurized cows."

Helen Louise Butz: (Translating shorthand to Miss Page) "It seems that much damage was done to the visitors (baggage) and through rough handling, one (trunk) was entirely crushed. (Baggage and trunk were omitted)

Opal Wright said in Health Class that hiccoughs was a fit of the diaghram.

Wilbur Eulitt: (Looking at a shorthand notebook) I'm glad that I did all my scribbling while I was young.
