Rev. 11/2018

Who We Are and What We Do

Since its formation in 1985, the Friends of the Alexandria Library has strengthened the ties between the libraries and the community. Each library branch and division now has its own Friends group.

The Friends of the Barrett Branch Library have raised funds and run book sales, using the proceeds for children's and adult programs as well as equipment and materials that enhance library services.

The Friends group meets monthly. Come join us! Meeting announcements are sent via e-mail to all members of the Barrett Branch Library Friends. Check the library calendar for upcoming meetings.

Want to know more about Barrett Branch Library?

The Barrett Branch Library was built in 1937 and named in honor of Kate Waller Barrett, a humanitarian, social equality crusader, and political reformer. Barrett Branch serves the Old Town section of Alexandria.

What is the unique space at Barrett Branch Library?

The Special Collections Division of the Alexandria Library is located at the Barrett Branch Library and houses many resources for historians, genealogists, and others interested in local and American history.

The Special Collections Division holds a variety of materials in multiple formats, including books, microfilm, microfiche, journals, manuscript collections and photographs.
