Under the USA Patriot Act (see <http://www.uscis.gov/graphics/lawsregs/patriot.pdf>), the Alexandria Library's (the Library) public computer workstations and network system are for use by authorized library patrons, who are subject to the rules of our Internet Policy and Rules (IPR) and the laws of government agencies.

The Library does not routinely inspect, monitor or disclose content but may do so in the course of "plain sight" resource inspection, system management and maintenance.

Patrons are advised that any evidence of criminal activity may be disclosed to or seized by law enforcement and government agencies. Individuals using the computer workstations and network contrary to the Library's IPR are subject to the penalties stated in the IPR and the laws of government agencies.
