

Geneva Public Library District (GPLD) provides programs that promote interest in reading and support the Library’s mission. In programming, as in selection of materials, GPLD will attempt to provide a wide variety of subject matter. Programming may be offered either by independent contractors subject to execution of an approved contract or by GPLD staff. Every effort shall be made to include a balance of viewpoints in library programs. Anyone wishing to request reconsideration of a programming decision may submit a “Request for Reconsideration of Library Resources” to the Library Director.

Library programs are located in a physically accessible location. A sign language interpreter or auxiliary aids will be provided for hearing-impaired persons who request them at least one week in advance of a library sponsored program.

GPLD offers programs at various days and times to be most accessible to the intended audience and to the greatest number of people. GPLD reserves the right to limit the number of participants in library programs and/or restrict or give preference to GPLD cardholders.

Library programs are provided free of charge. A reimbursement fee for materials may be charged when appropriate. At the discretion of Library Administration, program presenters and performers contracted by the Library may have the opportunity to sell their creative product (i.e. books they have authored or musical recording of material they have performed) as a part of their presentation.

(NOTE: Groups renting the meeting room are not permitted to sell any materials. See Meeting Room Use Policy.) Photographs and video may be taken during library programs and used for promotional purposes, including but not limited to placement on the Library’s website, social media sites, and/or newsletter.
